

WHITE WORKS / ÉTUDES EN BLANC

Saturday, June 23, 2012 to Friday, August 3, 2012

In the State of Flux Gallery, Michèle LaRose (Kingston, ON) presents a series of new paintings in a non-representational idiom experimenting with the use of a palette restricted primarily to the colour of white. After years of working with the National Museums of Canada and National Archives and as a management consultant, LaRose turned full-time to her painting in 2002. Known for her strong use of colour, LaRose's White Works achieve the same musical energy of her earlier paintings, at the same time that drawing surfaces as a significant player in the compositions.

See images of exhibition here

An opening reception with the artist in attendance will take place on June 23rd, at 7pm, at Modern Fuel (21 Queen Street).